FLIGHT NEWS

Galt Airport has been the center of much Seabee activity, with Seabees gathering to see how Paul Hanson (N6070K) was doing. Despite the distractions, N6070K are airborne Thanksgiving Day with Herb Maas as test pilot. It's a sharp looking machine and flies well, but those of us who have long wings miss the extra 4 feet.

Herb Maas (N6019K) took advantage of the unseasonably warm weather and sneaked in a landing on Wonder Lake on New Year's Day to become the first to make a water landing in '66 --- North of the Mason Dixon Line anyhow. Understand it was with Paul's airplane, though.

DUSTY GEM

Saint Peter, to student pilot: "How'd you get up here?"

New Arrival: "Flu."
